

Herman Posters

Attitude problems can do more damage to your business and cut deeper into your profits than any other problems you face. Change bad attitudes ... through laughter.

Competition ... adverse economic conditions ... computer problems ... these are nothing compared to the havoc bad attitudes and poor work habits can bring to your business. Now, the good news; you can radically improve your staff's attitude toward their jobs without costly company-wide training programs, quality initiatives and lectures. In fact, with Herman Posters, you can motivate your team through the power of laughter.

Every week a new Herman Poster will motivate your employees to show up every day... show up on time... and turn out better work! The posters feature "Herman," the hilarious, nationally syndicated cartoon character and they're designed to tackle hard-to-talk-about issues that can drag your company's productivity down to the lowest levels.

Don't let bad habits like absenteeism, punctuality and inattention to detail, simmer unchecked in the background. Bring them up-front and out into the open ... but do it in a way that won't offend or bring your team down.

Put the power of laughter - the power of Herman - to work in your company.
