

Substance Abuse Posters

On-the-job alcohol and drug abuse affects virtually every industry in Canada and the U.S. ... at staggering costs. Don't wait until it becomes your problem too!

Employees who abuse drugs may go unnoticed for a short time but eventually their problem could become your problem. Poor productivity, chronic absenteeism and careless work habits are all by-products of workplace drug abuse. In fact, a Time Magazine cover story reported that drug abusers were three times as likely to injure themselves, or someone else, while on the job.

Talking to employees about abuse is not an easy thing to do. In reality, most workers would resent it. That's where Substance Abuse Posters come in.

Substance Abuse Posters remind employees of the damage that alcohol and drug abuse can cause to themselves, as well as the effects it has on their families.

If a worker has a problem - the constant stream of Substance Abuse Posters will be an inescapable reminder that they need to do something about it now. For workers heading toward a problem, the program will help them realize that drugs and alcohol can ruin everything that's important to them.
